When we thought about what Mum would most like for her sixtieth birthday, it was clear to us that what is most important to her are the people in her life. Hence why we are throwing this party in her honour. In addition to this, however, we would really like to give her something to keep that follows the same theme.

To this end, we are asking every one of you to contribute something towards a gift for her. We have included with your invitation a matching sheet of paper on which we would really love for you to write Mum a message. The message can be anything - an anecdote from your friendship, what you think of when you think of Mum, how you first met or just a message of best wishes on her birthday. If you have any photos (old & new) of you & Mum over the years, we would love for those to be included also. We will then collate them all into an album of friendship & memories for Mum that we will present to her on the night. This part of the party is a surprise, so please don't let on to her! For any of you who can't make the party, we would love for you to be included in the book so please send them through also.

We are happy to receive either handwritten messages on the paper provided & hardcopies of the photos or emailed messages with scanned copies of the photos - or indeed a combination of them both - whichever is easiest.

We ask that you send us the messages by 25th June to give us enough time to collate it all into an album. If this doesn't give you enough time, let us know. We really hope that you are able to do this as we think it will be something Mum will treasure forever.

Thank you!
